World Environment Day 2021: Urgent need to combat depleting condition of environment by restoring ecosystem

June 06, 2021 1:45 PM

Every little effort from us will help collectively improve the environment and restore our Earth.

As responsible citizens of this nation, we must prioritize the environment and do our bit to restore it.

By Kishan Jain

The Covid-19 outbreak is one of the biggest challenges that the human race has had to ever endure. This almost apocalyptic situation is an indication of the disharmony in nature's equilibrium. It is telling of the repercussions of encroachment and mistreatment of nature and its abundance by humans. While there is a lot to debate around the cause and spread of the virus, the role of humans lies uncontested. Our short-sighted approach to our environment has led to degradation and a climate crisis that has not only caused the surge in new and fatal diseases like the Covid-19 but also threatened the future of—our planet and its
